PREFACE

John Barber White in "Descendants of Thomas Barber of Windsor, Conn., 1614-1909" has listed 658 pages of proven and probable descendants of that immigrant. Among the proven names is that of Lyman Barber, born 1790 in West Simsbury, Conn., with the added fact that he married Huldah Sanford, but no descendants are recorded. This book has been written to supplement Mr. White's work and to preserve records which have been carefully kept by the descendants of Lyman Barber, one of the very early settlers of Newark Valley, New York.

Abiel Brown's "Early Settlers of West Simsbury" published in 1856, gives many of the same facts concerning the family in Connecticut, that are included in Mr. White's book. Both these genealogies as well as "The Magazine of American Genealogy", published in Chicago, Ill., form the basis of the account given in the first section of this book. Besides I have added items of interest which were obtained from "The American Nation", Vol. 4, by A. B. Hart, "History and Genealogies of Ancient Windsor, Conn." Vol. 1 by Stiles, "Our Whole Country" Vol. 1, and "Connecticut Historical Collections" by John Warner Barber, and "A Record and Documentary History of Simsbury" by Lucius I. Barber.

The account of Lyman Barber's journey to Candor is taken from a paper written by his eldest son, Royal, who wrote the story as he remembered his father's reciting the events. It was read by the author at the Barber Reunion in 1897, was published in the local paper, and a number of copies were preserved. The description of early Newark Valley is taken from the "Historical Gazetteer of Tioga Co. 1785-1888" by W. B. Gay, supplemented by an article in the "Tioga Co. Herald", May 11, 1923 by Miss Anna Paterson, a descendant of one of the earliest families in Newark Valley and a careful student of local history. Several members of our family still living also remembered other details.

A fire at the Newark Valley Town Clerk's office in the early 80's swept away all official records and New York State preserved no birth records before 1880, but the early family in Newark Valley seem to have been genealogically minded. Royal Barber, my grandfather, and Aunt Julia Loring owned copies of Brown's "West Simsbury" and careful lists of families with dates were tucked inside them. These facts were checked with family Bibles and cemetery records, wherever possible, also with the Sanford Genealogy and by members of the next generation.

The plan of Mr. White's book and other genealogies has been followed in identifying each person whose biography has been listed. The number of his generation is given by a superior figure after the name, followed by a parenthesis containing the names of his direct ancestors in the Barber line with the number of each generation.

I have mentioned in the context those who contributed most to the compiling of the facts given. I wish to express my thanks to the family as a whole for their cooperation.

THE STORY OF OUR ANCESTORS IN CONNECTICUT

One of the first settlements made along the Connecticut River was at Windsor. Here there were so-called "meadows", level land next the river with fertile soil and no trees. An epidemic of smallpox had destroyed the Indian tribe which lived there and a party of the neighboring Mohegans visited Plymouth asking that colony to send settlers to occupy this land and help defend them against the fierce Pequots to the southeast. Therefore, upon finding the place good for the purpose, the people of Plymouth established a trading post at Windsor. Hearing of this, many settlers from the neighborhood of Boston, anxious to obtain a share of this valuable land, began to arrive in the summer of 1635, some in small parties overland or by sea and also whole congregations with their horses, sheep, cattle and other possessions. These succeeded in taking for themselves the greater part of the land, leaving to the Plymouth people the fort and only one-sixteenth of the territory which they had bought from the Indians.

Into the midst of the confusion and rivalry there appeared that year a new party from England. A company of English noblemen had been granted by the king a large amount of land extending inland 120 miles and westward to the Pacific which was then supposed to be not far to the west. One of the noblemen, Sir Richard Saltonstall, had fitted out this expedition, selected Francis Stiles, a master carpenter of London, as the leader, and sent twenty men apprenticed under Stiles to the new land to prepare grounds and erect houses for a number of Englishmen to follow. They had authority to form a settlement on the Connecticut River and, probably having learned of the Windsor colony on what they considered pre-empted land, at once interposed their claim. The Massachusetts men, who were already in possession, set upon the newcomers and drove them from the place but finally Stiles and his men returned and joined the colony already established. The English company later built a fort and established a settlement called Saybrook at the mouth of the river but in 1644 sold out to the Connecticut Colony.

First Generation

THOMAS BARBER<sup>1</sup>, (b. about 1614) perhaps from Bedfordshire, England, then twenty-one years old, was one of the party under Francis Stiles. He had crossed the Atlantic in the ship, "Christian", with the other members of the party, landed first at Dorchester and then proceeded in a smaller ship to the Connecticut River. The early records of Windsor contain several references to him. That same year, 1635, he was granted a lot on a road running between the rivulet and the Poquonock Road. Also on March 28, 1637, the court ordered Stiles to teach certain members of his company, including Barber, "the trade of carpenter according to his promise for their services for their term*." Plainly the master carpenter had failed to keep his agreement but in 1645 Barber had completed his apprenticeship and became a freeman.

Little is known of Jane or Joan _____ who became his wife Oct. 6, 1640. Some have supposed that she was the daughter of one of the Dutch settlers some of whom lived in the valley at that time. There is a story to the effect that she was one of the English colonists who early arrived from Massachusetts. It was said that two leaders of her party were disputing as to which was to be the first to set foot on the new land and that while they argued, she ran past them, sprang on the shore and thus was the first English woman to arrive in Connecticut.†

The danger to the colonies from the Pequot Indians came to a head in 1637. The latter were angered by the alliance between the newcomers and their enemies, the Mohegans, and were further incensed by certain tactless acts on the part of the leaders of the English colonists. The Pequots began to molest parties of settlers when they were outside the towns and then attacked Wethersfield, a settlement about ten miles south of Windsor. There could be no safety for the colonists until the Indians were crushed. Three small boats containing ninety men, thirty of whom were from Windsor, went down the river and eastward to the Pequot country. Thomas Barber with the rank of sergeant took an active part in the work of the expedition. The Pequots were surprised at night and they and their village were destroyed by fire. By this cruel act any danger from the Indians was removed until many years later when they had learned the use of fire-arms.

To the west of Windsor lay the Massaco lands, a name taken from massa-sauk meaning great outlet which referred to the Hop River.‡ This land was purchased from the Indians and grants were made to the colonists. In 1641 Thomas Barber was given about six hundred acres. He died at Windsor, Sept. 10, 1662.

There were six children:

1. John, 1642-1712.
2. Thomas, 1644-1701 or 1713.
3. Sarah, 1646.
4. Samuel, 1648-1708.
5. Mary, 1651.
6. Josiah, 1653/54—prob. before Jan. 6, 1729/30.

Second Generation

THOMAS BARBER<sup>2</sup>, (Thomas<sup>1</sup>), the second son of Thomas, the immigrant, was baptised July 14, 1644, at Windsor and died at Simsbury, May 10, 1701 or 1713. On December 17, 1663, he married Mary Phelps (b. Mch. 2, 1644). She was the daughter of William Phelps Sr., known as "Ould Mr. Phelps" and his second wife, Mary (Dover) Phelps. Mr. Phelps was born in Tewksbury, England, in 1599, came to Dorchester, Mass., in 1630, and in 1636 he arrived in Windsor, Conn. He was much respected and took a leading part in the counsels of the colonists as shown by the frequent mention he received in the early annals.

Thomas Barber with his brothers, John and Samuel, were among the original landowners in the Massaco country having inherited the property from their father. In 1669 Massaco was separated from Windsor, forming the new township of Simsbury. Here Thomas and Samuel came with their families in 1670 or 1671 and began improving their property by plowing, mowing, building and fencing, etc., as stipulated by the court if they were to retain ownership. Samuel later returned to Windsor but Thomas remained and became an active citizen.

In 1676, at the time of King Philip's War, the people of Simsbury became suspicious of the neighboring Indians. In great alarm the inhabitants, numbering about forty families, started back to Windsor where there was less danger, taking with them those possessions which they could carry and burying others left behind. After a time they reached a point where they could look back at the homes they had left and saw that already the Indians had leveled everything to the ground.

Not until the spring of 1677 did the people of Simsbury think it safe to return to their former homes. Many had lost nearly everything, most of that which was buried they were unable to find, the old landmarks being completely obliterated. Some did not return at all. Thomas Barber appears to have been one of the more fortunate. In 1678 with certain others he agreed with the people of Simsbury to build a grist mill and a saw mill. The mills, indeed, were badly needed, the nearest grist mill was at Windsor and the buildings in Simsbury, for want of better materials, were made of roughly hewn timbers. These mills were said to be in use as late as 1888.*

Thomas Barber was lieutenant of the first military company of the town; he is also credited with building the first church. A drum was used many years to call the worshipers and in 1683 the town "voted to give Thomas Barber ten shillings yearly for the beating of the drum on the Sabbath dayes."* Like his father he was public spirited and one trusted by his associates.

There were eight children:

1. John, b. N. v. 1, 1664.
2. Mary, b. an. 11, 1666.
3. Sarah, b. July 12, 1669.
4. Joanna, b. 1670.
5. Anne, b. 1671.
6. Thomas, b. Oct. 7, 1672.
7. Samuel, b. May 17, 1673.
8. Child, b. 1677, d. young.

Third Generation

SAMUEL BARBER<sup>3</sup>, (Thomas<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), was born May 17, 1673, and died Dec. 1725 presumably in Simsbury. On Dec. 17, 1712, he married Sarah Holcomb, the daughter of Nathaniel and Mary (Bliss) Holcomb. After thirteen years he died leaving six small children. In 1738 his wife with her four sons and two married daughters removed to West Simsbury where they were among the first settlers. The name of the township was changed in 1806 to Canton.

The sons and daughters were:

1. Samuel, b. 1713 or 1714.
2. Thomas, b. 1716.
3. Jonathan, b. 1717.
4. John, b. 1719.
5. Mercy, b. about 1721.
6. Sarah, b. Apr. 1, 1722.

Fourth Generation

SERG. THOMAS BARBER<sup>4</sup>, (Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Thomas<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), was born in 1716 and died in 1792. He married Elizabeth Adams (1716-1809), the daughter of Samuel Adams. Abiel Brown in his "Early Settlers of West Simsbury" says of him, "Mr. Thomas Barber was eminently known as a peacemaker in the community, a constant attendant on public worship and in early life was much attached to hunting and trapping."

There were ten children:

1. Jacob, b. 1738.
2. Elizabeth, b. 1740.
3. Lucy, b. 1742.
4. Abraham, b. 1744.
5. Mercy, b. 1747.

6. Azariah, b. 1750.
7. Tryphene, b. 1752.
8. Michael, b. 1754.
9. Job, b. 1756.
10. Abigail, b. 1758.

Fifth Generation

MICHAEL BARBER<sup>5</sup>, (Serg. Thomas<sup>4</sup>, Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Thomas<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), was born in 1754 and died in 1836. He married Azubah Brown (1760-1812), the daughter of Capt. John Brown. Azubah Brown was the sister of Owen Brown, whose son was John Brown, captured at Harper's Ferry and later hung. Captain John Brown was in command of the 8th Company in the 18th Regiment of the Militia in the colony of Connecticut but was ordered to recruit a company for service in the Revolution. This he did and with his men marched to New York and joined the army there. After a service of about two months, Capt. Brown was taken sick and died Sept. 3, 1776.

Michael Barber owned and operated a farm in West Simsbury and willed it to his son, Martin.

He had seven children:

1. Sophia Zeruiah, b. 1779.
2. Michael Jr., b. 1780.
3. Levi, b. 1782.
4. Azubah, b. 1785.
5. Lyman, b. 1790.
6. Martin, b. 1794.
7. Salmon, b. 1800.

THE FAMILY IN NEWARK VALLEY

Much of the coun' y west of the Hudson and south of the Mohawk was not opened for settlement until 1787. A dispute between New York and Massachusetts as to its ownership had prevented making any grants of land. Massachusetts claimed her original charter gave her a large tract in what is now southern New York State. That state refused to give up its claim and after the Revolution, Congress was asked to appoint a commission to decide the matter. Ten commissioners examined the claims and granted Massachusetts the right of pre-emption of the soil from the Indians and to New York the right to govern this territory. The land lying between the Owego Creek and the Chenango River, known as the Boston Purchase, was sold by Massachusetts to Samuel Brown of Stockbridge, Berkshire Co., Mass., and fifty-nine associates.

In 1791 the first settlers from Stockbridge arrived and made their home on the East Branch of Owego Creek about three miles north of the present Village of Newark Valley. The place was called Brown's Settlement but to the valley in which it lay the pioneers gave the name of Berkshire after the hills and valleys of their beautiful old home. A part of Berkshire was later set off as the Town of Newark, a name which was changed in 1862 to Newark Valley. The place has a natural beauty which is heightened by the luxuriant forests and green pastures which the deep glacial deposit covering the low rounded hills makes possible. The rich loam of the valley must have made the place seem a paradise to the New Englanders. An Indian trail already ran through the valley from the Susquehanna River to the salt springs on Onondaga Lake. This was widened to make a road suitable for ox-teams and it eventually became the Main Street of the Village of Newark Valley which in the 1820's began to grow up at the mouth of Trout Brook.

Newark Valley was and still is a quiet and secluded place, being separated from Binghamton, the only neighboring city, by nearly twenty miles of hilly country. The Onondaga Trail led southward ten miles to the village of Owego on the Susquehanna River which was the only trading center for the valley until the coming of the railroad in 1872. Game, especially deer, was plentiful in the early days and wolves for a time were a menace to the farm animals. Each man was a hunter and most of the settlers tanned the deerskins and made gloves, mittens, and leather breeches for themselves. These were also the days of the spinning wheel, the dye tub, and hand loom.

Large families were desirable to supply workers. Boys early learned the use of shop tools as well as other kinds of work. It was the custom for sons to remain at home until they were twenty-one and contribute their labor to the family support. Occasionally young men bought their time of their fathers so they might start out for themselves before coming of age.

Like the earlier generations in New England the pioneers of Newark Valley were deeply religious and were very strict in training their children. A Presbyterian Church was built on Main Street about 1831 which the Barbers attended regularly and where they have been active for generations. They have been especially interested in the choir and the music of the church. In 1869 this society became Congregational which it has remained. Little school houses were dotted through the valley but opportunities for education beyond the elementary studies did not exist for many years. Later "select schools" were formed in the village where some teacher instructed those students who would pay him perhaps $2.50 per month for his services. Singing schools were organized also on the same plan. These were more for adult students and were held on certain evenings. The pioneers had few books and no newspapers. Sometimes a newcomer would bring in some copies of a weekly newspaper which he had possessed for some time. These he would lend to his neighbors, who read them with great interest. There was no way of sending or receiving letters unless some traveler carried them to or from their relatives in New England.

Sixth Generation

LYMAN BARBER<sup>6</sup>, (Michael<sup>5</sup>, Serg. Thomas<sup>4</sup>, Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Thomas<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), was born June 10, 1790, in West Simsbury, Conn., where he lived until the autumn of 1814. That township is hilly and mountainous and the soil contains much coarse gravel, very difficult to work. Rich country to the west was being opened. The young man determined to go to northern Ohio, then called the "Western Reserve." Carrying with him food for his journey and travelling alone on horseback, he started toward the northwest. Having crossed the Hudson he reached the vicinity of Utica where he learned the Oneida Indians were dying of small-pox, so he turned to the southwest where a colony from Hartford County had settled at Candor near the southern border of New York. The emigrant traveled through the forest with only trees marked with axes to guide him much of the way. Once his camp fire attracted three Indians, which caused him some uneasiness. The war with England had closed but a short time before. Many of the Red Men had sided with the British Army and were still unfriendly toward the Yankees. After a pow-wow the three savages invited the young pale face to spend the night with them. He shared his lunch but refused to join them and was not further molested. Soon after this he reached Candor and was welcomed by his former neighbors in Connecticut.

Here our ancestor lived for five years, having bought a tract of land lying on each side of the road to Spencer and about one-half mile west of the Village of Candor. Here also in March 1817, he married Huldah Sanford (July 28, 1799-May 22, 1876), the daughter of Ebenezer and Rhoda (North) Sanford, who also had come there from Connecticut. Shortly before his marriage, Lyman Barber had the misfortune to have his right leg crushed by a falling tree and thereafter he walked with a wooden leg. Being unable to do the hard work of clearing the land, he sold the Candor home and removed to Berkshire, selling again in 1823 to take up his home in the present Town of Newark Valley a short distance south of the village on the road to Owego. A greenhouse business is now located there; the house is the third one to occupy the site. The property remained in the family until recent years. The village cemetery near contains the graves of Lyman Barber, his wife and seven of his children, also numerous descendants and related families.

Late in 1857 the house where Lyman Barber and his family had lived for more than thirty years caught fire in the night, those within barely making their escape. Then an old man, deprived of his wooden leg which he had to leave behind, he crawled on his hands and knees a few rods down the road to the home of his daughter, Julia, who had married William T. Loring. After this the farm was sold to Mr. Loring, and the couple purchased another home on Bridge Street nearer the village and there lived out their lives. Lyman Barber died May 13, 1862.

There were eleven children:

1. Royal, b. Apr. 22, 1818.
2. Elbridge Lyman, b. Apr. 8, 1821.
3. Susan Azubah, b. Jan. 6, 1823.
4. Julia Hotelkiss, b. July 21, 1824.
5. Edbert Michael, b. Aug. 14, 1826.
6. Cynthia Florilla, b. June 17, 1828.
7. Margaret Millinda, b. Mch. 8, 1830.
8. Alvin Martin, b. July 11, 1835, d. May 24, 1849.
9. Virgil Corydon, b. June 12, 1837.
10. Hollis Sanford, b. Aug. 21, 1838.
11. Adaline, b. Jan. 28, 1840.

Seventh Generation

ROYAL BARBER<sup>7</sup>, (Lyman<sup>6</sup>), was born in the Town of Candor, April 22, 1818, and was five years old when his parents settled in Newark Valley. On April 24, 1845, he married Catherine Amelia Hull, (b. Aug. 11, 1820, d. May 2, 1890), the daughter of Samuel and Sabrina (Teall) Hull of Candor. He owned a medium sized farm on the Davis Hollow Road a few miles from the Village of Newark Valley where his children grew up. He read whatever he could find about gardening and fruit and was well known for his skill in grafting. For more than forty terms he taught school in the towns of Candor and Newark Valley. He had a serious disposition and was very strict in all religious matters. He died in Waterloo at the home of his son, Orson, May 9, 1901.

Children:

1. Nathan Willard, b. Oct. 21, 1846.
2. Mary Lucelia, b. Jan. 30, 1848.

3. Lyman Alvin, b. Mch. 26, 1850.
4. Orson Royal, b. Sept. 20, 1851.
5. Cyrus Martin, b. May 29, 1854.
6. Arthur Jay, b. Nov. 18, 1856.
7. Alice Amelia, b. Apr. 3, 1859.
8. Emmett Eugene, b. Oct. 26, 1863.

ELBRIDGE L. BARBOUR<sup>7</sup>, (Lyman<sup>6</sup>), was born in Berkshire, Apr. 8, 1821. He married Dec. 28, 1848, Eliza Becker (b. July 8, 1826, d. Nov. 26, 1892). They made their home on a large farm in the Town of Berkshire. Here he was a successful farmer and a good business manager. Like his brother, Royal, he was known for his skill in grafting fruit trees. In later years he built a home on Whig Street in the Village of Newark Valley where he died Sept. 6, 1884.

Children:

1. Darius Edwin, b. July 2, 1851.
2. William Romeo, b. Oct. 3, 1858, d. July 9, 1870, in the Town of Berkshire.

SUSAN A. (BARBER) PRENTICE<sup>7</sup>, (Lyman<sup>6</sup>), was born in Berkshire, Jan. 6, 1823, a few months before the family removed to Newark Valley, where she grew up and where several of her descendants still live. For a short time she taught school. On Apr. 1, 1845, she married George B. Prentice (b. Sept. 22, 1817, d. Apr. 5, 1873), the son of Joseph and Dolly (Robbins) Prentice. Mr. Prentice was a man of fine principles and a capable farmer living in the Town of Berkshire. It was customary at that time when diseases often proved fatal and sometimes ravaged whole families, for neighbors to tend the sick and help those in distress. Mrs. Prentice often nursed those about her. She contracted spinal meningitis from one of her patients and died Feb. 23, 1865, after an illness of three days.

She left seven children:

1. Emma Zeruiah, b. Mch. 17, 1846.
2. Olivia Jane, b. Mch. 26, 1848.
3. Margaret Ann, b. Oct. 14, 1850.
4. Norman Alvin, b. July 7, 1852.
5. Willis B., b. Oct. 29, 1860.
6. Julia Ellen, b. Apr. 2, 1863.
7. Millinda Elma, b. Apr. 2, 1863.

JULIA H. (BARBER, LORING) SMITH<sup>7</sup>, (Lyman<sup>6</sup>), was born in the Town of Newark Valley, July 21, 1824. On Sept. 24, 1850, she married William T. Loring, (b. Sept. 6, 1811, d. Jan. 2, 1875), the son of William and Hannah (Tracy) Loring of Spencer, N. Y. Mr. Loring was a farmer and brickmaker living very near the Barber home. He had been widowed with six children whose own mother, Clarissa Hull, was a sister of the wife of Royal Barber. The children were Hannah, Josephine Wealthy, Clara Rutty, William Edwin, Elma, and Samuel Ulrah. Mrs. Loring brought them up and was cared for in her old age by the son, Samuel, and his wife, Margaret (Hollister) Loring who was a descendant of the Barbers. Mrs. Loring, who was Aunt Julia to all of the rest of us, outlived all her brothers and sisters. She preserved her parents' family Bible and other records. To her painstaking care the author owes much of the information she has of the early family in this state. In 1887 Mrs. Loring married Joel Smith. She died Dec. 3, 1911, on the farm where she was born.

EDBERT M. BARBER<sup>7</sup>, (Lyman<sup>6</sup>), was born in the Town of Newark Valley, Aug. 14, 1826. He married, Feb. 12, 1851, Catherine Ann Hull, (b. Aug. 25, 1832, d. Jan. 22, 1918), the daughter of Clark and Catherine M. (Perkins) Hull of the Town of Owego. This Hull Family apparently is not related, at least during its American history, to the one from which came the wives of Royal Barber and William T. Loring. Mr. Barber was a farmer in the Town of Newark Valley for a number of years but later his family removed to the Bridge St. home to care for his mother, who outlived her husband fourteen years. While in the village he worked at blacksmithing. Later they removed to the village of Owego where he was employed at a greenhouse.

He had six children:

1. Ann Augusta, b. Aug. 27, 1852.
2. George Edbert, b. Feb. 7, 1855.
3. Mary Fidelia, b. Nov. 1, 1857.
4. Julia Huldah, b. Apr. 6, 1863.
5. Lillia Maria, b. Sept. 23, 1868.
6. Willis Martin, b. Apr. 28, 1872.

C. FLORILLA (BARBER) GATES<sup>7</sup>, (Lyman<sup>6</sup>), was born June 17, 1828, in the Town of Newark Valley. She married May 15, 1851, Norton Gates (b. 1829, d. 1893), the son of Latimer and Cynthia (Sanford) Gates. They lived in a small house built for them by her father on his Bridge Street farm. Mrs. Gates was a regular attendant at the Methodist Church. She died Aug. 24, 1885 or 6.

They had two children:

1. Myron Halsey, b. Mch. 7, 1860.
2. Lovilla Cynthia, b. 1861 or 1862.

M. MILLINDA (BARBER) HULL<sup>7</sup>, (Lyman<sup>6</sup>), was born Mch. 8, 1830, in the Town of Newark Valley and married Apr. 25, 1854, W. Douglass Hull (b. 1830), the son of Clark and Catherine (Perkins) Hull, and the brother of Mrs. Edbert Barber. On Mch. 7, 1859, she died of tuberculosis, leaving two small children.

1. Averill Eugene, b. Mch. 26, 1855.
2. Luella Delphine, b. Mch. 1, 1858.

VIRGIL C. BARBER<sup>7</sup>, (Lyman<sup>6</sup>), was born in the Town of Newark Valley, June 12, 1837. He served in the Civil War from Feb. 13, 1864 to June 13, 1865. On Apr. 3, 1858, he married Althea Scott, the daughter of John and Catherine Scott of Rushville, N. Y. They resided near Newark Valley until about 1867 when they removed to Rushville. Here Mr. Barber became a vineyardist and winemaker but in 1883 he returned to Newark Valley, where he worked at carpentry. He died at Rushville, July 3, 1904.

There were four children:

1. Caroline Huldah, b. July 3, 1859, d. Aug. 17, 1874.
2. Charles Napoleon, b. May 22, 1861.
